

Supporting Community Based Workers in Promoting the Flu Vaccine

Are you working with community members or clients during this COVID-19 pandemic? If the answer is yes, you are in a trusted position to support the people you work with in staying healthy during the pandemic. The Washington State Department of Health values your lived experience and the trusting relationships you have developed with your community and clients. We know that word-of-mouth information from you is an important way your clients and community members get the facts to support their health.

The goal of this webinar is to increase your confidence in talking about the flu and promoting the flu vaccine. It has been developed in collaboration with members of the Washington State Community Health Workers Association.

The webinar will address these topics:

- What is the flu?
- What is the benefit of getting a flu vaccine?
- Is it safe to get a flu vaccine?
- What if someone says the flu vaccine makes them sick?
- Where can people get a flu vaccine and what does it cost to get vaccinated for the flu?
